Online Fraud is becoming a Global Problem

Are you a victim of fraud? BCSI can help you.

Fraud and specifically online fraud is an epidemic. Social media and dating sites have provided a great catalyst for this type of crime. In addition, fraud can be found on sites where counterfeit goods are sold or deceptive items are also represented.

Cyber-fraud has taken many new approaches, which are very sophisticated. Dating sites are filled with predators looking to extort funds from unsuspecting members. Often these crimes remain unreported as many of the victims feel ashamed of their behavior and their substantial loss. Many times, the predators request fund for a fake business project or guilty the victim into giving them money due to their limited funds. We have been successful in recovering funds for our clients whom have been victims of this type fraud.

Fraud is a complex crime and jurisdictions in the event of a global fraud require serious resources as often the location of the suspect is overseas and the help from other law enforcement agencies are limited. Once your identity has been compromised or stolen, it is very difficult to control the damages.

Here at BCSI, we have the resources and power to help you have peace at mind and stay safe.
